2010 CWLP COMMUNITY ENERGY MEETINGS SCHEDULED

City Water, Light and Power (CWLP) has announced the 2010 schedule for its public feedback forum, Community Energy Meetings. These meetings are designed to provide updates to the public on progress made regarding environmental and energy saving activities and to solicit suggestions and ideas from the community regarding energy programs and related issues. CWLP has been using the input received from these meetings to enhance existing programs and develop new energy efficiency and conservation programs.

“We welcome the residents and businesses alike to come be a part of the energy efficiency discussions at these interactive forums,” said Mayor Tim Davlin. “As the city makes progress on the efficiency and options available for its energy sources, I think it’s important that the CWLP customers get that same opportunity to make those improvements also at their homes.”

“With the addition of new and enhanced rebate programs for commercial and residential customers, as well as green energy purchase options and all of the efficiency upgrades to the Dallman generating facilities, this city is poised to set the example for other communities striving to be better than just environmentally compliant,” said CWLP General Manager Todd Renfrow. “The public being a part of the decision-making progress through the community forums is unique and key to the success of green programs.”

The first meeting of the 2010 series will be held on Thursday, February 25th at 6 p.m. at the UIS Public Affairs Center in Conference Room H. These meetings are part of an ongoing series the utility has been hosting to promote energy conservation measures and enhance its energy efficiency and energy management programs through public feedback. Public participation is encouraged to help CWLP develop the most effective and practical programs for its customers.
